

Debate For Awards Is Scheduled

Annual Prize Contest With Vermont Is Tonight In Chapel

Biggest debate of the current year will take place tonight in Mead chapel when a picked Middlebury team meets Vermont in the annual prize debating. Awards of twenty-five, fifteen and ten dollars will be made to the best three debaters of the two teams.

A Middlebury team composed of Edward J. Drew '40, Glenn H. Leggett '40, and Phillips Palmer '39 will debate the negative side of the question: "Resolved, that the United States should not become involved in armed conflict with another nation unless United States territory, or the western hemisphere is invaded by the armed forces of a foreign nation."

Under the American system of debating to be used this evening, each speaker will be allowed a main debate of ten minutes duration. At the conclusion of the main speeches, each contestant will also be allowed a five minute rebuttal.

Two sets of judges will be present at tonight's prize speaking. One set of three judges will decide the winners of the actual debate. The other set of three judges will select the best three debaters, and to these the annual awards will be made.

In this debate held at Burlington last year, the Vermont team won. In this year's contest, Leggett is the only Middlebury man who is a veteran of the previous debate. The U. V. M. team, however, will include two men who have debated together both in high school and in college. These debaters, Walter Glass and Bernard Lisman, have had much success in the past two years.

Last Wednesday a Bucknell team won from the Middlebury debaters in a contest held in Mead chapel. The question was: "Resolved, that the United States should cease to use public funds for the purpose of stimulating interests." The Panther team upheld the affirmative.

Coronation Opens Carnival Week-end

Joe Trask and Rusty Ray Crowned at Forest Hall By Pres. Paul D. Moody

Officially opening the 1939 Winter Carnival, the crowning of Middlebury's Czar and Czarina took place in the quadrangle behind Forest Hall last Thursday evening. President Paul D. Moody officiated, and the ceremony was attended by a good crowd of students, faculty and visitors.

After a quarter hour of music played on the college chimes, the ceremony was begun by a swing fanfare of trumpets. The college royalty, Rusty Ray and Joe Trask, and their attendants marched into the Arcade; after a selection sung by the freshman choir, President Moody crowned the Czarina. As the Czar's crown was mislaid, he was not crowned. Accompanied by another fanfare of trumpets, all but the Czar and Czarina and their attendants departed, and the parody prepared for the entertainment of Their Majesties began.

The parody consisted of four pantomimes satirizing current events. The Czech crisis, the situation in China and in Spain, and the humorous aspect of the nation's race for armaments were chosen for these scenes. Following this, the attendants marched out, and a sleigh drawn by a prancing steed, after several unsuccessful attempts, carried the King and Queen away.

Alpha Sigma Phi and Pi Beta Phi Winners

First prizes in the snow sculpture contest during Winter Carnival were awarded to Alpha Sigma Phi on the men's campus and to Pi Beta Phi on the women's.

Winning sculpture for the fraternities was a group showing a snow king seated in front of a large letter M with two small skiing figures on either side. The best women's sculpture depicted a weary skier and was entitled "That Tired Feeling."

First honorable mention on the men's campus went to Beta Kappa for "Ferdinand the Bull". Delta Kappa Epsilon won second mention for "Falstaff," while third mention went to Delta Upsilon for "The Thinker;" both for appropriateness. In the women's contest Sigma Kappa was given honorable mention for the carved head of "Ferdinand the Bull." Second mention went to the neutral women for their tobogganing group.

John Kirk Speaks At Jewish Center

States Attitude of American Students Toward Ideal of Free, Equal Opportunity

John M. Kirk '39, president of the Middlebury undergraduate association, represented Middlebury and American college youth in general when he spoke at a meeting at the Israel Center of Astoria in New York city on Friday, February 17.

Rabbi Joshua Goldberg, who has lectured to contemporary civilization classes and in chapel at Middlebury, is in charge of the Center. He presided at the meeting which was an anniversary night. Rabbi Goldberg explained the aid being given to refugees and described what had been done at Middlebury under the direction of Prof. Waldo H. Heinrichs.

Kirk's speech stressed America's attitude of cooperation in the furtherance of the cause of liberty and the necessity of continuing the American ideal of equal opportunity for all. He stated that American college youth are glad to cooperate in righting the wrongs of intolerance and inequality.

The Archbishop of the Greek Orthodox Church, and high officials of the Congregational, French Huguenot, and Spanish Catholic churches were among the speakers. Dean Kiely of the Women's College at Queens spoke on racial prejudices.

M. Frederix To Talk On Europe

French Outlook in Present European Situation to be Given in Talk Tomorrow

Monsieur Pierre Frederix, an authority on international affairs, will speak in Mead chapel on Thursday evening, February 23, at 8 o'clock. His subject will be "Europe After Munich: Appeasement or War?" The lecture is free and open to the public.

M. Frederix comes to Middlebury under the auspices of the Institute of International Education. He is a French author and journalist of note, but speaks English fluently. He will bring to Middlebury a clear and logical expression of the French viewpoint on the present international situation. It is hoped that he will also be available for discussion periods in classes of the French department and in the Contemporary Civilization class.

World War Veteran

M. Frederix studied law and history at the University of Paris and served for three years in the World War. He has done reporting for the French newspaper, Le Petit Parisien, in most of the European countries as well as in Soviet Asia and the United States.

He is the author of several authoritative books on political questions, as well as being a novelist. Among his books are "L'Etat des Forces en France" which is an unusually clear picture of the play of contradictory forces in French political life, and "L'Ange et le Couronne". He is also the author of "Conquete" and "Les Papillons Verts".

Enthusiastically Received

In 1937 M. Frederix lectured in the United States, visiting many colleges and universities where his lectures were enthusiastically received. During the months of February, March, and April he will visit a large number of colleges in the northeastern portion of the United States.

The French school had engaged M. Frederix for the coming summer session but he was obliged to resign because he was unable to arrange his American stay for that length of time.

This lecture, although not on the entertainment course program, is part of a policy aiming to bring authorities on world affairs before the student body.

Gignac's Top Performances in Downhill Race and Jumping Competition Big Aid in Panther Victory; New Hampshire Coach Enters Protest on Slalom

Climaxing the most successful Winter Carnival in years, Middlebury College's ski team captured top honors in the intercollegiate ski meet with a team score of 484.75, nosing out a hard-fighting New Hampshire squad which finished with 484.17 and a third place Vermont club which wound up with a 446.85 total.

Dunning and Cushman To Give Music Recital

Elizabeth Anne Dunning '39 and Robert V. Cushman '39 are to give a joint song recital Sunday evening at 7:30 in Mead chapel. The recital will be one of the regular musicale series sponsored by the A Tempo club.

The program will include: "The Young Nun" by Franz Schubert; "By Moonlight" by Robert Schumann; "Adelaide" by Beethoven; "The Crying of Water" by Campbell Tipton; "A Slumber Song" by A. Gretchaninow; "The Janitor's Bay" by Jacques Wolfe; "Villanelle" by Dell Acqua.

Plans For French Formal Complete

Annual Event Will Be Held Saturday Evening in the Ballroom of Le Chateau

This Saturday night, from seven thirty to ten minutes of twelve, the French club will hold its annual ball in the Grand Salon of Le Chateau.

In complete charge of this year's first club formal is Constance C. Trotter '40. Working under her as committee heads are, Helen S. Hooley '42, in charge of refreshments; Doris E. Keffer '40, chairman of the decoration committee; Louise E. Dorchester '40, in charge of the programs.

The decoration motif will feature the three flowers of democratic France—namely, the poppy, daisy, and the straw flower. They will appear in paintings in the main ball room, and also on the covers of the individual programs.

Music for the dance will be furnished by a victrola, which will play records that have been previously chosen for their popularity by voting on a list posted in the hall of the Chateau.

Refreshments will be served during the intermission by the committee in charge. The chaperones, if they may be called that, will be the entire French school faculty who are expected to attend the dance.

"Storm of Color" Is Main Feature of Carnival Ball

Carnival week-end got in full swing with the formal ball, following the coronation ceremony, Thursday evening in McCullough gymnasium.

Two crystal balls, each composed of 8,000 mirrors which reflected colored rays of light, completely transformed the interior of the building.

Glenn Miller and his orchestra played for the dancers, including several "jam" sessions among their varied musical arrangements. Vocalist Marion Hutton accompanied the band, notably in a rendition of "Franklin D. Roosevelt Jones" which received an encore.

Two programs designed in blue and white were provided for each couple by the Carnival ball committee, headed by co-chairmen Robert F. Pickard '40 and Lois D. Gillette '40.

Chaperones were Pres. and Mrs. Paul D. Moody, Dean and Mrs. John H. Patterson, and Prof. and Mrs. Ennis B. Womack.

Little Eddie Gignac, whose all-around performances placed him as the outstanding skier of the Carnival meet, gave his teammates and college a narrow margin of victory in the first day of competition over teams of Norwich and the University of Vermont.

In the slalom event which was held on Bread Loaf mountain Friday morning Peter Patch of U. V. M. swept down the trail to win by seven tenths of a second over Gignac with Horton of Norwich in third place. Patch's combined time for the two runs was 69.30 seconds while Gignac was clocked in 70 seconds flat. Tom Cootey, Norwich frosh, turned in the best single run, but fell on his other try and finally placed fifth. Bob Gale of Middlebury was disqualified for missing a pair of flags in this event.

It was the same slalom race that something occurred which may yet cost Middlebury her first place rating. A Middlebury runner in attempting to maneuver a three-gate flush fell, and then, according to a claim now entered, returned but took the flags in an incorrect sequence. If this claim is allowed, it will result in the disqualification of the Middlebury runner and possibly put Vermont in the runner-up slot.

An informal protest was entered to Middlebury's ski manager Gordon E. Emerson by Ed Blood, coach of the New Hampshire Wildcats, Friday evening. Then, when it became evident that the final standing of the meet depended on the decision of the judges in this matter, Blood and Ev Bailey (Continued on page 3)

KLONDIKE RUSH DANCERS

In crowded McCullough gymnasium, week-end revelers danced to the tunes of the New Vermonters, from Burlington, Vt., at the annual Klondike Rush.

Referred to as a "free-for-all" by the New York Herald Tribune, the Klondike Rush provided an informal relaxation for a tired throng of skiers from many of the leading colleges of the East, including the participants in the women's meet.

BRINGING THE MOUNTAIN TO MAHOMET

For years it has been the custom for Middlebury students to go to the library for whatever reading they have wished to indulge in besides the requirements of their instructors. In the last few months, however, the trend has been the other way. Small collections of books are being put in each dormitory to help interest students in using their idle moments for reading. The latest selection of books has, of course, been placed in Hepburn.

Bringing reading to the student's door would seem at first a dubious experiment. The results are otherwise, however, and the idea has proved successful in both Forest and Hepburn. Judging by the number of books which have been withdrawn in the last few days from Hepburn library, the book collection is as popular as the ping-pong tables.

Placing book collections in the dormitories, improvement of Hepburn Social hall, and a greatly increased number of social activities are convincing proof that the college is continuing to regard the leisure welfare of the students to be as much its responsibility as their intellectual growth.

SECRECY

Mr. Roosevelt has been criticized for authorizing sales of planes to France, on the ground that such sales should have been made in public. Senator Nye believes, too, that the army should have some power to decide types of craft to be sold.

The President's defense of his policy seems weak in the face of recent events. He asserts that the United States is strengthening the defense of democracy by sale of fighting craft to the so-called "democratic" powers, England and France. At one time this assertion would have been received with equanimity; but today it is doubtful. England and France may themselves be democratic, but their leadership lacks the clear policy which has been displayed by the dictatorships. It would be well for Mr. Roosevelt to know just how the fighting strength of France or England is to be used before increasing it. Americans may not wish democracy in a future world struggle to be "defended" in the manner in which England and France have defended democracy in Czechoslovakia and Spain.

CLUB MEETING MARCH 8

The English club will hold its next monthly meeting on March 8. From a recent report by Edwin G. Nixon '39, president of the English club, the guest speaker will be Dr. Charles H. Kaiser, assistant professor of philosophy. The subject of Dr. Kaiser's talk will be "On the Use of the Imagination in Poetry and Philosophy." Dr. Kaiser is a Harvard graduate and obtained his Doctor's degree there recently. Two years ago he was studying under Heinsburg in Germany, and last year was an assistant professor of philosophy at Harvard. He has published a number of articles in the Journal of Philosophy.

Bread Loaf Ski Outing Closes Winter Carnival

Ending the Winter Carnival in traditional manner, forty students roughed it to Breadloaf on Sunday, February 19, to enjoy excellent skiing and snowshoeing.

Two trucks left Battell cottage, one at 8:30 a. m. and one at 10:30 a. m. Everyone carried either skis or snowshoes. As soon as the trucks arrived at Breadloaf the skiers headed for the open slopes; the more experienced went to the trails, and the snowshoers went on a hike, not straying from the immediate vicinity of Breadloaf and the lunches, however. At about 12:30 a hot lunch was served.

Carnival Casino Draws Fifty Friday Afternoon

Fifty to seventy-five persons attended the Casino in Forest Recreation hall last Friday afternoon, tried their luck at the various gambling games and saw Coach Arthur Schlatter's movies on ski technique and sports in Switzerland. The affair, held from 2:30 to 5:00 p. m., was the first of its kind ever tried during a Winter Carnival.

For fifteen cents, a person received approximately $1,100 in stage money. With this money, the hopefuls bought chips in the forms of bottle caps, twenty for $100.

During the latter part of the afternoon Coach Schlatter's motion pictures were shown. The first of these was on the rudiments of skiing, showing in slow motion the correct technique of expert skiers, among whom was Coach Schlatter. The remainder of the films was devoted to other winter sports, including skating, bob-sledding, skiing behind horses, and ski jumping. Also some shots of the snow-covered scenery of Switzerland were shown.

Eight Teams Participate In Women's Meet Held On Saturday.

First women's ski meet was held at Bread Loaf Saturday morning, replacing the women's jubilee of former Carnival programs. Representatives of eight New England colleges competed individually in downhill and slalom races with Frances E. Cornwall '40 taking top honors for the combined events, and Helen E. Perkins '39 placing second.

The downhill race, run on the Worth Mountain trail which was used last meet, was won by Helen Chandler of Skidmore in the good time of 0:47.54. Lorraine Watler of St. Lawrence placed second, in a time of 0:51. Fourth and fifth places were taken by Barbara Knowles of Russel Sage, 0:53.7, and Peggy Bissette of St. Lawrence, 0:53.9.

The slalom, run on the open slope, was won by Helen E. Perkins '39 in a time of 0:36.2. Placing second was Miss Cornwall in 0:38., followed by Miss Bissette of St. Lawrence in 0:47.4. Virginia A. Orde '39 was fourth with a time of 0:47.9; Holly Fletcher of Vermont came in fifth with 0:49.7.

Competing in the meet were two women from each of the following colleges:

Connecticut College for Women, Elmira, Jackson, New Hampshire, Russel Sage, Skidmore, St. Lawrence and Vermont. The calibre of the women skiers varied a great deal, some expecting the jubilee or play day usually held on chapel hill, while others were prepared for the difficult downhill and slalom courses.

Richard E. Hubbard, coach of the Middlebury team was exceptionally pleased by the showing of the Middlebury contingent, as the women skiers had not had the competitive experience of some of the other contestants. Miss Walter and Miss Fletcher have competed at Lake Placid and at the women's meet at the Dartmouth Carnival.

Feb. 22—Well, the 1939 Winter Carnival is over and salted away with the records . . . let's talk shop about a thing or three concerning said snow festivities . . . last week our columnist predicted that Morpheus, the God of Sleep would be somewhat slighted this past weekend . . . it seems that the prediction didn't go far enough, for Morpheus not only got slighted, but he got royally kicked around . . . the gentle art of yawning is still in style three days after the activities ceased . . .

Carloads of bouquets and a greenhouse full of orchids to the ski squad . . . by the nearest of margins, they beat out competitors to scoop the Carnival and keep the handsome trophy in the local environs . . . this columnist and many others have, to date, failed to get a gander at the Victory Mug . . . all concerned say it be a beauty . . . perhaps public showing for just a few hours might assure the campus gang that there really is such a trophy . . .

Bread Loaf . . . Friday a. m. and p. m. . . three feet of snow on fine trails excellently patrolled 'neath passable skies . . . the downhill, or "acid test for suicide tryouts" . . . Gignac home in 1:24 to take first-spot honors for the field . . . followed closely by Townsend . . . judges on snowshoes clicking the final watches to give the Midd team honors in the event and an early lead in the running . . .

Hot coffee and soup after the contestants in the cabin in the clearing . . . imports and college dates frolic with guys and snowballs are thrown in "kid stuff" fashion . . . skis are re-waxed and off to wars again go the planksters and spectators . . .

Afternoon . . . slalom, the obstacle race to end all obstacle races . . . Gignac home two breaths behind the leader for a second place . . . the rest of the Blue and White squad close behind to place the squad high in team honors . . . at the close of the day with two events under their belts; Middlebury—193, others, too close for comfort . . .

Following a social interim while Russians revelled and revolted, back to Bread Loaf for langlauf over the mountain trails . . . Townsend of New Hampshire sets a gruelling pace to pass early starters and lead his squad to a perfect score for team honors . . . Norwich and Vermont stick close . . . Middlebury loses the scoring lead by a few counts . . .

Back on campus and up to Chipman for the spectators' delight, the jumping . . . the fate of the meet to be told in this event . . . five teams in scoring position, one to emerge victor . . . Whitcher of New Hampshire tries vainly for honors . . . however, no one is to shadow the performance of Gignac that afternoon . . . with official leaps of 110 and 112 feet, he leads Whitcher, his nearest competitor, by twenty-odd points in the final tally . . . Capt. Carter pulls down a fifth place to make it harder for the judges . . .

The meet is over . . . the spectators leave to dance at greek letter organizations . . . the finger seems to point to New Hampshire for the Carnival honors by the slightest margin . . . the checkers and judges convene and the Wissler adding machine goes to work . . . final count after much dickerer Middlebury victorious at its own Carnival by a fraction of a point . . . tremendously close second, cohorts of New Hampshire . . . individual orchids to Gignac for two firsts and a second . . . group orchids to the squad for coping the Victory Mug in handsome fashion . . . managerial orchids to Evans and Sweeney for an efficiently conducted Carnival called "most successful" by caustic critics . . .

Middlebury Skiers
Enter I. S. U. MeetSix-Man Team Expected to Go Well in Class A Competition

After winning their own carnival, the Middlebury ski team leaves today for the Intercollegiate Ski union meet at St. Marguerite's, in Canada. There the Panther skimen will compete against the top teams in the senior division of the I. S. U., including Dartmouth, McGill, Montreal, New Hampshire.

Seven men have been selected by Coach Arthur Schlatter to make this trip. They include Captain Mel Carter, Mole Cole, Bob Gale, Eddie Gignac, Dave Goodell, Dwight Smith and Ira Townsend.

In all, there are five events scheduled for the competing teams. These are cross-country, downhill, jumping and slalom and combined. Goodell, handicapped by injuries this year is slated to enter the cross-country and jumping.

The meet will get off to a start with the jumping competition on Thursday afternoon. This will take place on a 50 metre jump, larger than either Middlebury's or Dartmouth's. On Friday the downhill and slalom will be run off, while on Saturday morning the cross-country race will be held. That afternoon a banquet will be held, with prizes being awarded to the winning skiers. After spending the night in Montreal, the Midd team will return home on Sunday.

New Hampshire will be out for Middlebury's scalp at this big meet in the Laurentians. Midd won her own carnival by the merest fraction of a point over the Wildcat skiers, and the competition should be interesting to watch.

Midd Sextet Bows
To Colgate, AlumniRed Raiders Triumph 2-0;
Old Grads Win 7-3
Led by Duke

As the opening feature of the 1939 carnival, the Panther sextet dropped a close game to the crack Colgate team 2-0. On Saturday afternoon the season closed with the collegians taking a 7-3 trimming from the alumni.

The first two periods of the Colgate encounter were scoreless with the action being mostly at the Middlebury end of the rink in the first period and in the Colgate territory in the second in spite of penalties to Bates and Wishinski.

Most of the action took place in the third canto when, after 12 minutes of play, Coley of Colgate scored on a shot from center ice which slipped through Davis' legs. Then with only 14 seconds of play remaining, Johnson of Colgate scored on a breakaway, the puck caroming off Davis' pads into the net.

Then, on Saturday morning, the Alumni puck chasers, led by former Middlebury coach Walter J. "Duke" Nelson, crushed the varsity by a 7-3 count.

Featuring such former greats as Nelson, Dud Phinney and Walt Crocker, the invaders got away to an early lead when Nelson blasted a shot by Davis at 7 minutes. Elliott of last year's sextet dropped in the second on a long shot at the eighteenth minute. The varsity was unable to score on freshman Tom Ripa who took over the goal-tending duties for the graduates.

Again in the second canto the old grads notched up another goal in short order with Nelson flipping the puck into the nets at five minutes. Then Johnson, assisted by Alexander, countered for the varsity to break their scoring famine. For the duration of the period both Ripa and Davis were hard-pressed as Davis yielded markers by Akerstrom and two more by Nelson, while Ripa was solved by Jarrell and Reichert.

The third period was rather slow since the tired alumni were content to play defensive hockey. The lone tally came in the seventeenth minute when Olie Jason of the alums stole the puck from a defense man and rifled it into the far corner of the net.

Gignac Leads Blue And White Ski
Team To Victory Over Six Rivals

captain of the U. V. M. team, entered a formal protest to Manager Emerson. Statements from the skier himself, the student checker and several witnesses have been prepared and will be sent to the three judges separately. They will make their decision without consulting each other and then notify the interested parties. Fred Hanson of Lebanon, N. H., Dr. Bragg of Bellows Falls, and Henry 'Bem' Woods, former Dartmouth captain and now a graduate student at Middlebury, are the judges.

According to Manager Emerson, there is absolutely no hard feeling on either side of this matter. The whole affair was arranged in a friendly spirit and both sides are ready to accept the judges' decision as final. Also on Friday Gignac captured the downhill title from Lockwood of Dartmouth. Townsend took fifth place for the Panther with Captain Carter and Bob Gale taking ninth and tenth spots respectively. At the close of the first day there were five teams bunched together with totals of between 193 and 190. These were Middlebury, Vermont, Norwich, Dartmouth and New Hampshire in that order.

Court Season Ends
With U.V.M. Game

Intramurals

Yesterday the intramural hockey season came to a sensational end with the championship battle. In the struggle for first honors ASP took the DU ice men by a 1 to 0 count, thus leaving DU in second place. Don Putnam sank the winning goal for the Alpha Sigs dropping a long angle shot past Rod Brush, DU goalie. The Sig Ep-Chi Psi battle for third place is still to be played. The game was played under very poor ice conditions due to the recent spring weather.

Handball semi-finals are being played off this week. Straight, wearing the ASP glove, will play Clark, Cushman is to challenge Boardman, but R. Anderson remains unchallenged in the third group as Poley and Maxwell haven't as yet played off the quarter-finals. Two wins on an individual chart advances the team one round on the team chart. As it stands ASP has a good chance of taking the handball title.

Starting tonight the contest for the badminton championship will begin with about thirty six racketeers in the competition.

Kimball Union Academy
Will Ski Here Saturday

This Saturday a ski squad from Kimball Union academy of Meridan, New Hampshire will invade Middlebury for a meet with the Panther B team. Last week-end at Dartmouth, the K. U. A. boys swamped everything in the line of prep school competition.

Which events will be run off has not yet been decided, nor has the Blue and White team been definitely selected. Dave and Bailey Goodell, Johnny Trask, George West and Ray Unsworth will probably be the skiers to compete, however.

On Chipman Saturday

Hampshire, Bem Woods of the Middlebury graduate school, Brent Brown of Williams, Whitcher and Clark of New Hampshire, and Klien of Middlebury all turned in good tries although most of them fell on the worn landing spot.

Ira Townsend took a second in the combined just three points behind his namesake Paul of New Hampshire who took the combined event.

Loss of Key Men Weakens
Cats for Encounter
At Burlington

Friday night the Panther quintet will face an injury-hampered Catamount five on the enemy floor in the last of Middlebury's contests for the mythical Vermont state championship cup.

Still stinging from the 38-37 defeat that was handed to them in McCullough gymnasium, Coach Sabo's charges will be on their toes, fresh from recent victories and eager to take the Beckmen.

Vermont, victor in nine out of fourteen starts this season, is rated as the tenth best team in New England. Last week in a contest at Williamstown Sabo's squad hung up a surprise win by taking an overtime decision, 51-47 from the Williams quintet. Last Saturday afternoon, in the Burlington auditorium, they staged a last minute rally, featuring two quick baskets by Taylor to conquer Amherst, 40-36.

The Vermont five, odds-on favorite in the Friday night battle, will come onto the floor with a line-up that has been changed, due to injuries in the usual five.

Nicholson and Corley will take the forward posts against the Panthers. Corley, high scorer in the recent Amherst title with twelve points, has been a consistently high scorer throughout the season since becoming a varsity player.

Beauchemin, ranked as the sixth highest scorer in New England, will take the center position. Beauchemin has boosted his score to 190 points for the Vermont quintet.

At the guard positions, Maley and Taylor will start. Taylor, sophomore star from Brattleboro, Vt., has won the last two games for the Catamount, by dropping in the winning goals in each contest.

Captain Belardinelli and "Apple" Pye will see the game from the bench since both men have been eliminated from the contest; Belardinelli because of an injured leg, and Pye as the victim of a sprained ankle sustained in the recent Williams tilt.

Vermont, unlike other teams that the Beckmen have faced during the season, uses a zone defense. It was in breaking up this defense that Mahoney starred in the first Midd-Vermont encounter, and it is here that the Midd captain's loss will be most strongly felt in the Friday night game.

St. Mikes' Repeats Win
Over Panthers by 35-25

Obviously not recovered from an attack of the holiday jitters, the Middlebury hoopmen fumbled their way through the fifth league game of the schedule, and lost to visiting St. Michaels last Monday night, 35-25.

Whether or not the Panthers have seen a basketball in the past few days is a question, but the fact remains that St. Michaels had so little trouble in holding a constant lead of six to nine points over Coach Ben Beck's quintet that Middlebury never once threatened during the game.

St. Michaels opened the attack in the first two minutes of the first period. Brady, the tall red headed frosh center, swished the net for two points from the center court.

Eriksson broke the ice for the Midd team, when on a pass from Krauzer he scored the first two points. Fouled while making the basket, he tallied two more points from the free-throw line. The Purple team allowed the Panthers Ripa and Davis were hard-pressed as their own total, to lead 17-11 at the half.

The second period saw a repetition of Middlebury's poor showing in the first half. Eriksson and Talbott shared the few scoring honors that were allotted to Middlebury, with twelve and nine points each. Bad passing, poor ball handling, and off-center shooting, handicapped the Midd team.

"Russian Revels" Scores Success In Winter Carnival Performance

Color was the keynote at the Carnival play, "Russian Revels", presented in two performances last Friday evening in McCullough gymnasium. Gay costumes, colorful scenery, bright tunes and lyrics, kaleidoscopic dances, and a lively pace throughout were the predominating characteristics of this annual Carnival feature.

As is usual in musical comedies of this type, the plot was chiefly conspicuous by its absence. An American financier, a Russian Tsar, and a rascally regent provided the chief triangle of action, while the American's daughter, and the Tsar's daughter, with the rival captains of the palace guard and of the Cossacks supplied the love interest. A sub-love affair was fixed between the Princess' nurse and the lieutenant of the palace guards, which provoked song as well as humor. The plot apparently involved a loan, an attempted revolution, a kidnapping, and a rescue, but it was difficult to see in what order these events occurred, or even why.

The singing and acting was excellent. Every year, someone new is discovered; the 1939 singing discovery is Margaret A. Heald '40, who the audience found, has a lovely soprano voice. Last year's sensation, Jessie W. Matthew '41, found a perfect team-mate in Willard Littlehale '41; together they sang the best lyric of the production, "What A Fool You Made Out Of Me." Roswell D. Schenck '41 handled his numbers well, while Edward A. Romeo '39 proved in fine voice. John G. Prukop '42 was equally good when he sang the title song.

The dance numbers, created by Betty-Grace Heldman '39, were well thought out and well executed. The "Nurses Chorus," done by a tap group, was especially popular, while "The Sword Dance" was equally appreciated. Best of all, however, was a specialty dance done by Miss Heldman and Robert de Veer '41; it was a clever parody on the modern dance and acrobatic dancing.

The staging of the affair contributed a great deal of color to the production. There were three scenes, with seven changes; the sets were an inn scene, a peasant's hut, and the ante-room of the palace ball room. The scenery showed careful and thoughtful work, and added much to the affair. However, the many scenery shifts which were made took a great deal of time.
